CLEVELAND IS THEIR IDOL

CHEERS FOR THE DEMOCRATIC EX-PRESIDENT

Convention Goes Wild When His Name is Mentioned by Temporary Chairman--Conservatives in Control--Parker Continues to Gain Votes.

St. Louis, July 6.—The Democratic national convention met to day, listened to an extended speech from Temporary Chairman John Sharp Williams, appointed committees necessary to perfect permanent organization and adjourned until to-morrow. In a session lasting two hours and fifty minutes one striking incident overshadowed all other proceedings. That was the enthusiastic and prolonged cheering which greeted the name of Grover Cleveland. While the outburst which greeted the name of the former Democratic president before its last syllable had fallen from the lips of the temporary chairman was noteworthy in itself, it was magnified by contrast with the greeting accorded actual persons of men who stood for all that has been opposed to Cleveland within the party during the last eight years.

James K. Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the national committee, went on to the platform and took his seat unnoticed. Practically no greeting was given him when he faced the convention with gavel in hand. There were other stalwart lieutenants of the Nebraska who entered the hall unacclaimed, and lastly, Bryan himself, who, for the first time during two national campaigns, was greeted with silence. Eight minutes after the gavel fell the two-named candidate of his party passed in the main entrance and without his sent unheralded and unheeded. A few moments later he arose and pushed his way to a seat nearer the aisle, where, standing a moment to give greetings to friends, he was caught sight of and applauded.

CLEVELAND APPLAUDED.
But the measure of applause was but a ripple when compared with the storm called forth by Cleveland's name. Listening attentively to Democratic doctrine laid down by Williams the conservatives found occasion for the first demonstration when reference was made to the record of former President Cleveland. All the shackled party interest which had lain dormant through two national campaigns was released as by the touch of a trigger. The name of Cleveland was echoed from a thousand throats. Hats, handkerchiefs, fans and arms were waved, delegates and spectators stood on their chairs and the last semblance of order was turned into confusion when the convention officials were powerless to subdue. While the outburst was at its height Bryan's following attempted to convert the demonstration into applause for the leader. The name of Bryan was yelled lustily, but in vain. The shouting of "Grover" and "Cleveland" was renewed and the Bryan following was hissed. The greatest significance was attached to the showing made by the conservatives. Their absolute control of the convention is no longer doubted even by those who have heretofore declined to be convinced. The nomination of Parker for president is assured beyond any possibility of defeat.

AN ALTERCATION.
An incident to the demonstration was an altercation between Sergeant-at-Arms Martin and an over-zealous man who was giving vent to his enthusiasm in a manner which convention officials deemed offensive. As Chairman Williams was knocking splinters from his desk in an effort to pound the convention into order so he could proceed with his address a man in the vicinity of the New York delegation was seen motioning delegates and spectators to continue their applause and encouraging the galleries to ignore the chairman's order for silence. The man resented interference from the sergeant-at-arms and in the end was ejected from the convention hall. This disturbance was of a rough and tumble order, though no blows were struck.

ARRIVAL OF DIGNITARIES.
Before 11 o'clock the spectators' seats in the great coliseum began to fill, although the space on the floor allotted to delegates and alternates remained barren until noon, when the session was called to order. The arrival of dignitaries attracted little attention. David B. Hill and other boomers of Parker, Tammany Leader Murphy, Bryan, Democratic members of the senate and many others prominent in national affairs and conspicuous before the country took their places in the hall practically unnoticed. Many persons of distinction were given places on the platform. Among the distinguished visitors were Mrs. Charles Mercer Hale, daughter of Judge Parker; former Senator Reagan, the only surviving member of Jefferson Davis' cabinet.

NO POLITICAL SCHEMING.
Little political scheming was experienced on the floor of the convention hall. The Parker delegates were so much in the majority there appeared to be no basis for clever manipulation. The action of Ohio late last night, closely following Pennsylvania's declaration for the New Yorker and the band wagon tendencies displayed by other delegations which had been counted in the Parker ranks, had a telling effect upon the opposition. Though opponents professed not to be disheartened by the stories of Parker gains and continued to claim more than one-third of the delegates who pledged themselves never to vote for Parker, few persons could be found willing to listen to those who were backing the field against the favorite.

CALL TO ORDER.
Exactly on the hour of noon Chairman Jones called the convention to order. The call was read and prayer delivered. A committee was named to escort Williams to the platform to assume the temporary chairmanship.

With the exception of the tinder ignited by the mention of Cleveland's name the speech of the temporary chairman was received practically without interruption. A few passages were applauded, but that was all. Fault was not with the speech, but principally with the acoustic conditions in the hall.
The applause which greeted Williams at the conclusion of his speech attested his popularity with the delegates. Though they had heard only a small part of what he had said, the cheering by delegates and spectators amounted to an ovation.
As the preliminary business of naming the working committees was completed delegates started to leave the hall. Announcement of meeting places of committees was made and at 2:50 the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

NEW JERSEY FOR PARKER.
Former United States Senator Smith of New Jersey, who is practically the head of the delegation, saw William F. Sheehan to night and assured him New Jersey would join the Parker column on the first ballot. Senator Smith is quoted as saying he had a telegram from Cleveland declining positively to have his name presented and that Parker was therefore their second choice. No positive confirmation, however, was to be had of receipt of such a message.

WHAT WILLIAMS SAID.
St. Louis, July 6.—Temporary Chairman Williams' speech, which was very lengthy, was largely devoted to ridiculing and criticizing sentiments enunciated in the speeches of Speaker Cannon and ex-Secretary Root made at the Republican national convention and denunciation of the platform adopted by that body. He made the claim the latter dealt chiefly in the boast that the Republican party was responsible for everything good which has happened and was composed in a large measure of ancient history. He said the platform, to sum it all up, asks the people to "stand pat" in every respect except one, and that is the plank relating to congressional action that shall determine whether special discrimination of the elective franchise in any state has been constitutionally limited. In this respect, the speaker said, the question might better have been left alone. He said such action would be in violation of the fifteenth amendment and would be but the entering wedge to a new period of southern reconstruction.

After relating at length what a Democratic administration would accomplish if placed in power, the chairman concluded: "Above all a good Democratic administration will practice the simple precepts of Jefferson's first inaugural address. It is a political sermon on the mount for Democrats and Republicans. Gentlemen, it is in the power of no man or party to assure success. It is in the power of the humblest to deserve it. God grant that we have it. Let us by the character of our platform and character of our candidate deserve it and let us erect a standard to which all good men may repair with that injunction."

Williams drew a picture of the country's condition at the time of Cleveland's first inauguration, declaring that 90% of the distress that came in the early 90's was due to Republican misrule that had gone on before. He scored the attitude of the Republican party on financial legislation, declaring it has been full of inconsistency and absurdity. He mentioned the name of Bryan in discussing the price of wheat during the Bryan-McKinley campaign. The utterance of the name called forth some cheers, but a second later, when he mentioned the name again, the applause was not repeated.

Later on when Williams mentioned the name of Cleveland cheer after cheer rolled through the hall and the convention was soon beyond the chairman's control. New Hampshire delegates climbed upon seats and yelled vigorously. One town man stood up and waved his hat frantically and wild cheers answered him. "Three cheers for Grover Cleveland," shouted an Alabama delegate. They came with genuine power of enthusiasm. No cry came from Nebraska, where Bryan and friends sat quietly without taking part in the noise. Again and again cheers came in dense volumes, despite numerous cries of order and strenuous pounding of the chairman's gavel. Then Williams sat back and watched the scene he had created. As cheers and cries fell there would be a renewal of the outbreak and the demonstration lasted eight minutes.

Tim Murphy, standing in the center aisles encouraging the demonstration, was first requested to take his seat and then ejected from the hall by Sergeant at Arms Martin. Murphy said he was endeavoring to assist in securing quiet, but his efforts were misunderstood, and despite his expostulation and threat he was finally taken from the building by police.

When Williams had been speaking an hour and twenty-five minutes he said: "Now for a few words in conclusion and if you are as pleased to hear that conclusion as I am to conclude, this will be the most delighted audience that ever existed."

Williams spoke but a few words more and concluded his address greatly exhausted. Perspiration was streaming down his face and his collar was soaked.

As he finished the band struck up a medley of patriotic airs, the stirring strains of "Dixie" calling forth wild "Delegates are invited to visit the exposition," said Williams, "and the clerk will read the invitation." The last few words were lost in cries of "Bryan, Bryan," from different parts of the hall. Cheers mingled with calls for fully a minute before the voice of the clerk was able to rise above the tumult. Bryan remained quietly in his seat during the demonstration and gave no outward sign of recognition of the applause that had greeted his name.

PARKER'S STRENGTH

Opposition to New Yorker Grows More Uncertain.

St. Louis, July 6.—The steady growth of Parker strength has continued unchecked throughout to day and to night. In the face of developments in the convention session the nebulous opposition grew more uncertain and to night no one can be found to stand for any definite statement that the New Yorker will meet with opposition of a serious character when the convention is polled for first place on the ticket. Delegations that have wavered in the balance have succumbed to the Parker tide with few exceptions, and these are not expected to withstand the almost assured results of the vote as it proceeds, but will change to the Parker column before the roll call is finished. It was reported late to night that a final anti-Parker conference had been called for an unknown place of meeting, but the New Yorker's managers, confident that they have the whole situation thoroughly in hand, were not disturbed by this conference or its possible results.

VICE PRESIDENCY

Probable Candidates for Second Place on Ticket.

St. Louis, July 6.—There is plenty of gossip concerning the vice presidency, but aside from a movement in behalf of George Turner of Washington there is no well defined vice presidential boom. A flurry resulted from a report early in the evening that James H. Eckels of Illinois had begun an active fight for Judge Judson Harmon, but the Harmon people declared the story absurd and asserted that Harmon had already positively and finally declined to accept anything but first place on the ticket.

J. R. Williams of Illinois was, next to Turner, perhaps the most frequently mentioned of the long list of vice presidential possibilities.

Adlai B. Stevenson of Illinois, Bryan's last running mate, was talked of for a time, but it was declared that he would not accept the nomination.

Among others mentioned are G. V. Manley, John W. Kern, B. F. Shively, Indiana; Folk, Missouri; Rose, Wisconsin; Ainsworth, Illinois; Kilbourne, Ohio; Dockery, Missouri; and Edward C. Wall, Wisconsin.

COMMITTEES ORGANIZE

BAILEY OF TEXAS TO BE PERMANENT CHAIRMAN

Senator Daniels Chosen Head of Resolutions Committee—Work of Preparing Platform Placed in Hands of Sub-Committee.

St. Louis, July 6.—The committee on resolutions met immediately after adjournment of the convention and after effecting organization and transacting considerable preliminary work adjourned to meet to night. The meeting was called to order by ex-Senator Hill of New York and on his motion Senator Daniel of Virginia was elected chairman. The suggestion having been made that the committee take recess Bryan suggested that if there were any members who had drafted platforms which they desired to present they should submit copies to members in order that they might have time to consider them before coming together again.

"If," said Daniel, "the gentleman from Nebraska has a platform I should be very glad indeed, for one, to have a copy of it."

Bryan replied he had none. At this juncture a number of members stated they had formulated various resolutions which they desired to submit. This was done and the committee took recess.

The committee on resolutions reconvened at 7 o'clock and Senator Daniel announced the appointment of the subcommittee to prepare the platform for submission to the full committee as follows: Daniel, Virginia; Hill, New York; Bryan, Nebraska; Williams, Mississippi; Patterson, Pennsylvania; Dubois, Idaho; Hamlin, Massachusetts; Cable, Illinois; Poe, Maryland; Shively, Virginia; Davis, West Virginia.

Senator Newlands made a plea for fuller representation of irrigation interests and by unanimous consent his name was added to the subcommittee list.

The committee then entered upon the consideration of the labor question in connection with a plank presented by ex-Governor Thomas of Colorado. This plank recited the constitutional rights of individuals, organizations or government should be summarily rebuked and punished. It also "denounces" "the infliction of punishments without due process of law and denies the right of any executive to disregard or suspend any constitutional privilege or limitation."

Governor Thomas urged adoption in a speech in strong terms, saying it would do much to make Colorado safely Democratic.

McMahon, Ohio, replied, saying that while the adoption of this plank might do much to secure the labor vote it would also probably have the effect of depriving the party of the support of employers of labor. This question was temporarily laid aside to listen to hearing on proposed planks covering other matters.

Oscar Sutor, chairman of the Philippine delegation, appeared before the committee and stated the desires of his delegation. He asked that the following be embodied in the platform: "We believe that the destinies of the Philippine Islands and the United States are firmly united and a form of territorial government similar to that now in force in Porto Rico and the Hawaiian Islands should be granted the Philippines at the earliest practicable date."

The subcommittee continued consideration of details of the platform until 12:40 this morning (Thursday), when they adjourned until 9:30. The subcommittee made very good progress and tentatively agreed upon the preamble and tariff plank. The tariff plank declares for revision of the tariff and gradual reduction on a wise and business-like plan. Bryan offered a provision for reaffirmation of the Chicago and Kansas City platforms, but definite consideration was postponed, although it was made plain that it would not be accepted. It was also evident during the consideration of the platform that Bryan will not receive very much consideration, for although he made many suggestions and offered many amendments they were not accepted. It was made manifest that the platform was to be a conservative document. It is expected there will be quite a lively contest over a gold plank, if it is offered, but the money plank was not taken up at the evening session.

Some doubt is expressed as to what Bryan's attitude is to be, as he made no serious objections or showed any particular fight upon any action taken. It is believed he will make a fight before the full committee or on the floor of the convention for the amendments which he offered and which were rejected.

CREDENTIALS.
The credentials committee was organized to night. James M. Head, of Tennessee, was nominated by James W. Ridgeway of New York for chairman. John J. Fitzgerald of Rhode Island, a Hearst supporter, nominated J. A. Corrigan of Minnesota. The question of Hearst or Parker men controlling the committee was demanded on the selection of chairman, for Head and the Tennessee delegation are avowed supporters of the New York candidate. Upon the vote the Parker men won a decisive victory, Head being elected by a vote of 32 to 12.

THE ILLINOIS CONTEST.

Although the allotted time for Illinois and its thirteen contests was one and a half hours the committee gave nearly double the time listening to arguments. Contestants in the thirteen cases were represented by M. F. Dunlap, O. P. Thompson and E. B. Tolman; contestees by John P. Hopkins, Frank P. Quinn and Roger C. Sullivan. The announcement that the committee would hear but three on each side was made when many contestants were absent and arguments were in full swing when they appeared and demanded adjournment, claiming they had not been consulted in the selection of the committee. For a time there was a prospect for a fight around the doorway. The committee was fully one hour considering the evidence and decided that all the Illinois delegates should retain their seats, save Duncan C. Best in the twenty-first district. Gen. Alfred Orendorff was given the seat held by Best. After the Illinois case was decided a motion was made to adjourn, but it was overwhelmingly defeated.

The Hearst delegates declare that they will carry the Illinois contest upon the floor of the convention and fight to the last.

By unanimous vote 19 seats and votes each were awarded to the Philippines and Porto Rico.

The anti-Hearst faction of the District of Columbia was seated by a practically unanimous vote.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.
The committee on permanent organization selected Joseph W. Bailey of Texas for permanent chairman, defeating Champ Clark of Missouri.

RULES COMMITTEE.
When the committee on rules met the Illinois member, F. P. Morris, proposed a simple majority only be required to nominate candidates and not two-thirds majority, as has been the practice since 1852. This was defeated after some discussion by a vote of 4 for to 24 against.

The rules of the last convention were adopted without change. They are adapted from the rules of the house of representatives under the Crisp speakership.

The committee unanimously decided to recommend delegates from Porto Rico be permitted to vote. A proposal the same privilege be given delegates from the Philippines was defeated 13 to 15.

BAILEY DECLINES

Texas Senator Refuses Permanent Chairmanship—Wants to Combat Bryan Forces.

St. Louis, July 6.—Senator Bailey of Texas and Representative Champ Clark of Missouri have both declined to accept the permanent chairmanship of the Democratic national convention. When the committee met it organized without delay. Senator Bailey and Representative Clark were put in nomination and the former elected by a vote of 18 to 15. The committee then unanimously elected Charles A. Walsh of Iowa secretary of the national committee, as permanent secretary of the convention. All the other officers of the temporary organization were made permanent and the committee adjourned under the impression that its labors were ended.

When Senator Bailey was informed of his election he announced at once that he could not accept, as he desired to be on the floor when the platform is under discussion. He is expected to combat any attempt from the Bryan forces to inject into the platform planks which do not meet the approval of the committee. Therefore his declination of the chairmanship was respected. Bailey urged the chairmanship should be given to Clark and the committee called upon him and made the tender. Clark answered that he was engaged to put the name of Senator Cockrell in nomination for the presidency and therefore would have to be on the floor during the convention. He was urged to reconsider and finally agreed to telegraph Cockrell that the place had been offered him. If Cockrell makes no objection Clark will accept. In view of the certainty that Parker will be nominated, it is believed that Cockrell will ask that his name be withdrawn.

Neither Bailey or Clark knew the latter's name was to be voted on for the chairmanship. Bailey to night gave out a statement in which he said that Clark was one of his most loyal and valuable friends in the house of representatives; that if this were a close contest and Clark and himself were supporting different candidates he would not hesitate to be a candidate even against Clark. There is no such contest here.

SHORT SESSION TO DAY.

St. Louis, July 6.—On account of difficulties which have arisen in connection with various matters of a preliminary character connected with the convention the conclusion has been reached to have only a very brief session to-morrow. The convention will meet at 10 o'clock, but it is probable that none of the more important committees will be able to report. The committee on resolutions surely will not be, and in view of Bailey's declination of the permanent chairmanship it is probable the temporary organization will be continued for a day. The present prospect is that to-morrow's session will not close more than an hour's duration.

REPUBLICAN ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATIONS HELD AT JACKSON, MICH.

Exercises Held in Grove Near Spot Where First State Convention Took Place—Speech of Senator Fairbanks.

Jackson, Mich., July 6.—Nearly ten thousand people assembled in a picturesque oak grove in the outskirts of this city to day to celebrate the semi-centennial anniversary of the birth of the Republican party. It was in a smaller oak grove at the opposite end of Jackson that fifty years ago to day the first state convention held under the name of "Republican" took place. Here the initial Republican state ticket was then placed in nomination.

Secretary of State Hay was the orator of the day and Senator Fairbanks of Indiana, Republican candidate for vice president, and Speaker Cannon were also present and delivered addresses. On the platform was seated a representative delegation of the Republican leaders of this state, headed by Senators Alger and Burrows.

Burrows preside over the afternoon session and Alger was the last speaker of the afternoon. In the front row of the audience were nearly a thousand men who voted for John C. Fremont for president, some of whom had participated in the original "under-the-oaks" convention fifty years ago to day. To this venerable company special reverence was paid.

The city was in holiday attire and streets thronged with visitors. The day's program began with a sunrise gun and band concert, preceding the opening of the morning exercises at the park, which were presided over by Hon. James O'Donnell, of Jackson. Attorney General Black, of Jackson, and Thomas J. O'Brien, of Grand Rapids, were speakers of the morning. Senator Burrows was presiding officer at the afternoon session. Secretary Hay was greeted with tremendous cheers when he stepped forward in response to Chairman Burrows' introduction and began his oration.

Senator Fairbanks was the next speaker and also received an ovation. He spoke as follows:

Senator Burrows and Fellow Citizens: We are met to commemorate no ordinary event, for here, a half century ago, American patriots solemnly pledged themselves to vindicate the "first principles of Republican government"—to challenge the aggressions of the slave power. Here was issued the second declaration of freedom. Here was taken the bold step which led to the overthrow of slavery and the establishment of the government upon truly national lines. We truly pay the tribute of our grateful appreciation to the memory of those who raised here the standard of Republicanism.

The Republican party was born of the conscience of the people and it was here dedicated to as high and holy a service as ever summoned men to heroic duty. The appeal to the people of Michigan which was issued by Zachariah Chandler, that stalwart among stalwarts, and his associates was like a clarion call to exalted service. It was conceived in the same spirit which inspired our fathers in the morning of the American revolution.

The resolutions here adopted were put upon a high plane. Differences of individual opinion upon administrative details of states or domestic policy were subordinated to the one overmastering question of the hour. It was solemnly resolved "that postponing and suspending all differences with regard to political economy or administrative policy, in view of the imminent danger that Kansas and Nebraska will be grasped by slavery. . . . We will act cordially and faithfully in union to avert and repel this 'gigantic wrong.'"

Thus consecrated, the Republican party was here christened and sent forth to accomplish a more vital mission than ever challenged the consideration of the people since the foundation of the government.

To the Republican party was committed, in God's providence, the stupendous responsibility of preserving the integrity of the nation's back. We would not here kindle anew the fires of past hates or reopen the debate of long buried differences which divided section against section, for we stand reunited under the acknowledged supremacy of one flag and one destiny. But we may appropriately recall the history of a past generation in which American contested with American for the triumph of opposing theories. In that contest the Republican party stood for national solidarity. It stood for the nation above state, and the victory it achieved blessed both the victor and the vanquished. American opposed American with titanic power. American met American upon the field of glory and the God of battles was with the cause espoused by the Republican party. The hates and the enmities which for centuries had been engendered have happily perished and perished forever. The memory of the valor of those who fought for conscience sake beneath opposing flags remains as a rich national inheritance. The important verdict of history is that the Republican party was everlastingly right, and its further verdict is that no American ever surrendered his sword save to an American. Every grave, whether it is tenanted by the heroic youth who wore the blue or by him who wore the gray, is an enduring pledge of the solidarity and unity of the republic.

Out of the unhappy divisions which followed quickly upon the accession to power of the Republican party, came a new national birth; a fusing of national sentiment which has increased our national strength beyond the dreams of our fathers. Fifty years is a brief period when compared with the life of the elder nations, yet it embraces the entire life of the Republican party, a party whose achievements are among the most lasting and luminous of the deeds done by any party since the beginning of the government. It has not lived the life of repose and inactivity, for its career has been characterized by restless energy and serious work. Its lines have been cast amidst stirring events, when great problems were to be solved and mighty deeds were to be done. It has met upon a high level domestic questions of far-reaching significance and it has increased our national prestige abroad. Our primacy among the nations of the world is generally acknowledged. It is a cause for congratulation to us that the orator of this historic occasion should be one who has done more than any other to establish our prestige among foreign courts, to the wisdom and modesty, loyal, trusted friend of Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt—John Hay.

The span of the last fifty years is, indeed, the golden age of the republic. During the greater part of that period the Republican party was in the ascendancy. Its principles and its policies were in full operation for the nation and our country advanced as never before. The growth during the existence of the Republican party, verges upon the marvelous. While the tremendous progress that has been made cannot be ascribed, of course, entirely to the wisdom and modesty of its policies, yet it has contributed immeasurably to the results which have been attained. It has given security and protection to capital and labor. It has been the wise and loyal friend of each, for it has realized that our greatest development must come through their harmonious co-operation. It has inspired confidence among the people in the integrity and soundness of the administration, all of which is essential to the highest development and progress. No duty has been laid upon it, no matter how sudden or grave, but that it has met it wisely and bravely. It has never capitulated to mere expediency to make a truce to wrong. It has taken the moral side of every great question and has confidently trusted in the wisdom and integrity of the government of the American people. It has taught the unity of the republic, the oneness of the American people and their interdependence. It has stood against socialistic tendencies, the zone of human liberty, high qualities which would establish class distinctions, which are the very life of monarchical institutions and which are harmful to the republic.

The country of fifty years ago stands in marked contrast to what we behold to day. Then there were thirty-two states with some twenty-five millions of people, part slave and part free. To day we have forty-five states, a zone of human liberty of freedom. There then was division among the states. To day there is unity of sentiment. Then there was slavery. To day it is dead and buried beyond the possibility of resurrection. The zone of human liberty has been extended beyond the limits of our borders by the valor of our arms and established among all peoples in the distant seas.

The progress of our people has been manifest in every avenue of human effort. It has been marked in art and science, in philanthropy and charity, in commerce and industry, in industry and school and church, in industry and commerce. Minds which have developed in the material world beyond the most optimistic dreams of those fifty years ago assembled here beneath the historic oaks, we have expanded in all of the highest and better qualities which exalts the pride and admiration of the most advanced people.

We stand at the morning of a new century which is to be the greatest of the past. It is a happy augury that we enter upon it with the Republican party in the ascendancy, under Republican policies which are suited to the largest zone of human liberty. The Republican party has given to history many statesmen of great eminence whose names have become a part of the immeasurable glory of the republic. We will enter upon the half century which opens before us with such hopeful promise, under a brave, patriotic, wise American, whose deeds are in harmony with the best traditions of the republic and whose ambition is to lead our countrymen and our country in the paths of peace, prosperity and honor—Theodore Roosevelt.

Let us take new inspiration from this hallowed spot and prove ourselves worthy of the virtue and courage of our fathers.

Speaker Cannon made a short speech reviewing the record made by the Republican party since its organization. After eulogizing the Republican party for its administration of the government, Cannon said: "Rather than hand over the children of this country to the Democrats I would give them up to the tender mercies of stepmothers who had children of their own."

Senator Alger of Michigan was the last speaker.

JUDGE PARKER

Continues His Silence on Presidential Nomination.

Kingston, N. Y., July 6.—Judge Parker spent the day very quietly at his home, "Rosemont." He talked cordially on any subject save his own candidacy. He has rather pointedly intimated, indeed, that his silence on this matter would be broken only upon the occasion of his formal and official notification of the nomination. Through his secretary he kept more or less in touch with events at St. Louis to day by long distance telephone, but in no respect varied the routine of his quiet life as a country gentleman. It is understood here to night that while Parker has no intention of breaking his silence until formally notified of his nomination, he has expressed his desire that in event of his nomination the notification shall take place at a very early date, even within a fortnight. The townspeople of Parker to night decided to hold a "glorification" meeting on Saturday evening, provided the judge is given the nomination.

ENDORSE ROOSEVELT.

St. Louis, July 6.—After nominating two persons for president of the United States, both of whom declined to accept, the convention of the National Liberty party, an organization of negroes, which convened here to day, decided to endorse the candidacy of President Roosevelt, declaring he is the "true friend of the negro" and the latter's interests will be safe in his hands.

"A Picnic"

In the real sense and in the slang sense will be an occasion of delight to you if you have laid in a generous lot of biscuit, crackers, tinned meats or fish (ham, tongue, salmon, sardines) ever to be had in this supply-store for our friends on an outing bent. Understand, these goods are all right the whole year around; note too, that our prices are not raised for holiday merrymaking.

WORLD'S FAIR TRIP

DR. M. H. GOODRICK TELLS EXPERIENCE.

Spent Five Days at Exposition and Expense was Only $10.50—What Features were Seen and What It Cost to See Them

To the Editor of the Journal:—There have been so many conflicting stories about the Louisiana Purchase exposition. I thought the public would be interested in my trip and the impressions now abounding when at rest in good old Jacksonville.

Before starting we prepared an abundance of substantial lunch. We had heard so much of over charging that we went prepared and ate all but four meals from our lunch. On Tuesday morning we took the 7:40 train and arrived at St. Louis on time. We left the train at the Washington street depot and took the Olive street street car for 5141 Kensington avenue. The pleasant home of Dr. W. O. Wait where he had engaged rooms. We had dinner from our basket and before 12 noon we were at the exposition grounds. The street cars carried us to the main entrance and the first view was grand and beautiful.

In the fore ground the plaza of St. Louis, then the Grand Basin, the Cascades Festival hall, (in which is the largest organ in the world), and The Colonnade, with the splendid buildings on either side, were a great tribute to the genius of the master mind that planned them and the splendid triumph of him who built.

After spending some time taking in the beauties and effects from different view points we started on a tour of the interior of the buildings in the following order:

Education and social economy, Festival hall, the art building, General Grant's log cabin, the Christian church building, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, fish and fisheries, Michigan and Washington, then the United States bird cage, T. P. A. building, Louisiana and the Missouri building.

At 6 p. m. all the state and exhibit buildings are closed to visitors, so we had lunch and then followed the crowd to the Pike. Here there is enough noise and confusion to satisfy the wildest nature, without the objectionable features of the midway in Chicago. We went to Herod after, not a very good show for nervous people, yet clean and entertaining. Next we went to Creation, a much better show, which winds up with a panorama, which is very fine.

Wednesday we started at the electricity building, then machinery hall, the transportation building; the mines and mining, the United States government, the liberal arts and the following state buildings: Wisconsin, Ohio, New York, Kansas, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Iowa. After supper we listened to the Weil band of St. Louis and the Italian Banda Rossa, both splendid, and listened to by large crowds.

We again went to the Pike and went from "New York to the North Pole," a first-class exhibition; the best we saw on the grounds.

Thursday we visited the manufacturers', Kentucky, the pottery, Vermont, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Montana, West Virginia and Maryland. After dinner Oklahoma, Arkansas, Indiana, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Nevada, Maine, New Jersey, Indian Territory, Arizona, Mississippi, Virginia, Tennessee, Idaho, The Temple of Externity, California and our own beautiful, Illinois.

Friday the Japanese bazaar, Alaska, the anthropology, Queen Victoria's jubilee presents, administration, Austria, Sweden, Holland, England, Cuba, China, Brazil, Italy, Nicaragua, Siam, Mexico, Baffin, forestry fish and game, East India, Ceylon and the German building.

Saturday the agricultural building, 1,000 feet long and 500 feet wide, covering twenty acres, and one of the most interesting exhibit buildings on the ground. The horticulture, the Philippines exhibit, then a return to the art, the manufactures and the government building. At 4:30 p. m. we left the grounds with the satisfaction that we had seen at least a large part of the greatest exposition ever held on this terrestrial sphere. It is our opinion that the present exposition is many times greater than the one held in Chicago. It is well managed and the whole affair moves as if directed by one mighty arm.

The illumination certainly surpasses anything ever before attempted. We saw the lighting from many points, but the most beautiful of all is seen in a boat ride out the lagoon. The attendant calls out the many special points of interest and as you glide along you seem to be transported to fairy land indeed.

The equal of this exposition in all its parts will probably not be seen again in this generation. My advice to every one is, if at all possible, see it. If you cannot stay, go for a day. See the manufactures, the liberal arts, the agricultural buildings. Take the boat ride. Spend a while in the evening on the Pike. Go to "New York to the North Pole" and you will get your money's worth. It is grand beyond any words to express, the scope, beauty and magnitude of the undertaking.

In beauty all the efforts of the scene maker to create a fairy land are dwarfed by this huge conception.

THE EXPENSE.

We left Jacksonville at 7:40 a. m. Tuesday. We spent Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the exposition. My expense was $16.50, and I spent more than any one of our party of eight persons. One spent less than $15. On the Pike the expense can be regulated from nothing to almost any figure.

I attended the Creation for 50 cents.

Hereafter 25 cents.
Galveston flood 25 cents.
New York to North Pole 25 cents.
Scenic railway 10 cents.
Ice cream, etc. 40 cents.
The items of expense were as follows:
Railroad fare $2.05.
Room rent $4.
Admission to grounds $2.50.
The Pike $1.75.
Street car, Intra Mural railway, $1.
Meals, $3, including lunch.
Water and laundry 55 cents.
Boat ride 25 cents.
The Philippine exhibit 50 cents.
Total, $16.50.

To get a good view of the grounds take the Intra Mural at Station One, near the main entrance, take out your map and notice the main points that the conductor calls out. It will help you very much in finding your way about the grounds. The very best place to get meals that we found was the Nebraska restaurant. All meals 40 cents, well prepared and prompt service, located near the New York building. Before you buy anything inquire the price. Take plenty of whole-some lunch. You can buy lunch, milk or cooked meats in almost every block. We figure that our expense was $30 less by virtue of our lunch, which we enjoyed mornings and evenings, and part of the time we took lunch to the grounds. We were treated kindly and fairly at every turn. I wish here to recommend the rooms at Dr. Wait's. Mrs. Wait was very kind to all of our party and we were well pleased with the cordial reception and many courtesies extended to us.

Respectfully,
M. H. Goodrick.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested that the city council of the city of Jacksonville, having ordered that a brick pavement twenty-eight feet wide with stone or combination curb be constructed on East Morton avenue in said city from the east line of South Main street to the east line of Hardin avenue, the ordinance for the same being on file in the office of the city clerk, and have applied to the county clerk of Morgan county for an assessment of the costs of said improvement, according to benefits, and an assessment therefor having been made and returned to said court, the final hearing thereon will be had on the 28th day of July, A. D. 1904, or as soon thereafter as the business of the court will permit.

All persons desiring may file objections in said court before said day and may appear on the hearing and make their defense. Said special assessment shall be divided into ten installments, which installments shall all be equal in amount except that all fractional installments shall be added to the first, and shall be due and payable on the 2d day of January next after completion and acceptance of the work, and the second installment one year thereafter, and so on annually until all are paid. All installments shall bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum.

James H. Danskin,
Commissioner of Special Assessment for East Morton Avenue.

CURED OF CHRONIC DIARRHOEA AFTER TEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge, of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from chronic diarrhoea for ten years and during that time tried various medicines without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favor of that wonderful medicine." This remedy is for sale by all leading druggists.

Howard Jameson, who was injured on the Fourth, is getting along nicely, and no serious results are anticipated.

A TEXAS WONDER.

One small bottle of the Texas Wonder, Hall's Great Discovery cures all kidney and bladder troubles, removes gravel, cures diabetes, seminal emissions, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and all irregularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women; regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold by your druggist it will be sent by mail on receipt of $1. One small bottle is two months' treatment and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Dr. E. W. Hall, sole manufacturer, P. O. box 629, St. Louis, Mo. Send for testimonials. Sold by J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store.

READ THIS:

Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 24, 1901.—For twelve years I have suffered from sweet diabetes and have spent hundreds of dollars with various doctors, with but little benefit. I was recommended to try a bottle of Texas Wonder, Hall's Great Discovery, and will cheerfully testify to the public that it did me more good than all things else put together and am altogether another man. I have persuaded many of my friends to try it.

JOHN E. DAVIS, Grocer.

The mention of Captain Smith's name recalls to all who were brought in contact with him, deeds of generosity and kindness. At a time when acts of violence were not only condoned but expected, his conduct was that of a gentleman, and hence his welcome here was of the heartiest.

Captain Smith tells an amusing story of the closest call he had during his four years of fighting. It was on the field of Shiloh, during the second day's battle. He was passing over a portion of the field which had been occupied by the confederates, in company with a comrade, when he espied a dead confederate soldier lying in a clump of bushes, with a gun across his arm, of a make which he was anxious to secure. He took hold of the barrel and pulled it towards him, when, as he did so, the gun was discharged in his face, burning his hair and eyebrows and narrowly missing his comrade, who was standing behind him. He dropped the gun and ran, remarking to his comrade, that if a dead rebel could shoot like that it was time for them to be getting away from there.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Visit of Capt. Smith in Southland Recalls Incidents of Civil War Days—Article in Florence Tribune.

The Florence (Ala.) Tribune in an issue of recent date has the following article regarding Capt. Alexander Smith, who has just returned from a visit in the south:

Capt. Alex Smith, of Jacksonville, Ill., who first visited Florence as an officer of an invading army, forty years ago, returned last week as a welcome guest to revisit the scenes of former battles. Captain Smith belonged to the Seventh Illinois cavalry and was in command of the troops stationed at Florence in the early part of 1864. Though a soldier forty years ago, he appears to be scarcely above that age now, and his memory of scenes and people is no less remarkable than his youthful appearance. It was he who carried North Bob Mitchell, the little negro boy, who afterwards became a prominent figure in Chicago politics, and educated him.

The mention of Captain Smith's name recalls to all who were brought in contact with him, deeds of generosity and kindness. At a time when acts of violence were not only condoned but expected, his conduct was that of a gentleman, and hence his welcome here was of the heartiest.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Visit of Capt. Smith in Southland Recalls Incidents of Civil War Days—Article in Florence Tribune.

The Florence (Ala.) Tribune in an issue of recent date has the following article regarding Capt. Alexander Smith, who has just returned from a visit in the south:

Capt. Alex Smith, of Jacksonville, Ill., who first visited Florence as an officer of an invading army, forty years ago, returned last week as a welcome guest to revisit the scenes of former battles. Captain Smith belonged to the Seventh Illinois cavalry and was in command of the troops stationed at Florence in the early part of 1864. Though a soldier forty years ago, he appears to be scarcely above that age now, and his memory of scenes and people is no less remarkable than his youthful appearance. It was he who carried North Bob Mitchell, the little negro boy, who afterwards became a prominent figure in Chicago politics, and educated him.

The mention of Captain Smith's name recalls to all who were brought in contact with him, deeds of generosity and kindness. At a time when acts of violence were not only condoned but expected, his conduct was that of a gentleman, and hence his welcome here was of the heartiest.

Captain Smith tells an amusing story of the closest call he had during his four years of fighting. It was on the field of Shiloh, during the second day's battle. He was passing over a portion of the field which had been occupied by the confederates, in company with a comrade, when he espied a dead confederate soldier lying in a clump of bushes, with a gun across his arm, of a make which he was anxious to secure. He took hold of the barrel and pulled it towards him, when, as he did so, the gun was discharged in his face, burning his hair and eyebrows and narrowly missing his comrade, who was standing behind him. He dropped the gun and ran, remarking to his comrade, that if a dead rebel could shoot like that it was time for them to be getting away from there.

FRANK CROW INJURED.

Frank Crow, residing on Fulton street, was painfully injured about 9:30 o'clock Wednesday evening by the explosion of a fire cracker. He was holding a cannon cracker in his hand, and was picking at it with a sewing awl when it exploded, taking off the thumb and middle finger of the left hand.

Dr. C. C. Cochran was called and dressed the injured members and at last accounts the patient was resting as easily as could be expected. The accident was a most unfortunate one and will keep Mr. Crow from his work at the car shops for some weeks.

The pleasant purgative effect of these Tablets makes them a favorite with ladies everywhere. For sale by all leading druggists.

DEMOCRATS ARE AT WAR

Harrison-Dunlap Faction May Call Another Illinois State Convention.

St. Louis, July 6.—At an informal meeting of the Illinois democrats, held at the Jefferson hotel yesterday forenoon, Mayor Crolins, of Joliet, and a candidate for governor prior to the Springfield convention, and Attorney Lumsford, of Chicago, set a movement on foot, the object of which is to hold a special state convention in the near future for the purpose of selecting a new state committee and overthrowing Hopkins and his band. Crolins has guaranteed ample police protection against the Chicago rough necks for the anti-Hopkins democrats if it is decided to hold the convention at Joliet. East St. Louis also wants the convention, should it be called, and has promised all necessary police protection.

It was the opinion of all present that Hopkins must be overthrown if the integrity of the party in Illinois is to be preserved.

Judge Thompson, of Jacksonville, one of the attorneys representing the Illinois contestants stated that the national committee is receiving the report of the subcommittee, have agreed that very questionable and irregular methods were used in making up the Illinois delegation at Springfield, and recommend that the committee on credentials go into the matter fully and in detail. Judge Thompson says he is positive that a number of the contestants will be seated.

The feeling at the Dunlap headquarters is that unless a sufficient number of the contestants to give the anti-Hopkins people control of the delegation are seated, they would prefer to leave the matters as they are.

Miss Daisy Richter, of Livermore, Cal., and Miss Mable Allen and Lecher Peak, of Exeter, and Miss Bronna Peak, of Jacksonville, were guests of William A. Peak, recently. Miss Daisy Richter arrived in the city via St. Louis, where she stopped to visit the world's fair. Miss Richter is a native daughter of the golden state. Her mother crossed the plains in 1852 with an ox team when she was only 6 years old and her grandfather, Clayton Gilliam, died on the way and was buried on the western slope of the Sierra Nevada mountains. Clay Gilliam was a son of William A. Gilliam, of North Prairie, Scott county, who was a very prominent man and well known in his day, and at one time a prominent member of the state legislature. Miss Richter is very much pleased with the beautiful city of Jacksonville and she speaks in high terms of the streets and lovely shade trees and says everything is so green and lovely. Miss Richter is a prominent teacher in the schools at Livermore. Her father is a wealthy farmer and cattle dealer and interested in all public enterprises. Miss Richter will remain in the city and vicinity for a few weeks.

Now is a good time to buy coal while it is cheap. C. E. McDougall. Bell phone 148.

CREDIT IS DUE.

Successful public celebrations are never due to the single efforts of any one person, yet the Fourth of July celebration of 1904 was most materially aided by the ceaseless and untiring energy of T. H. Buckthorpe. He was one of the prime movers in the enterprise and worked in season and out to make the day one of pleasure and wholesome enjoyment. He was a large contributor to the success of the day.

POCKET TIME TABLE.

As a matter of convenience to the traveling public "THE ALTON," which bears the reputation of being "The Only Way," has had a very neat pocket time card printed.

It gives the schedules of trains to and from St. Louis, Chicago, Peoria and Kansas City from a Jacksonville standpoint, giving the time at some of the principal intermediate stations. This will be much appreciated especially during the world's fair travel and any one wishing copies may have them by applying to the local agent, Oscar L. Hill, or calling at the station.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The second tournament of singles in tennis began yesterday with twenty-four men entered. Much interest is being manifested in these games and a large number are present to watch the contestants.

Never was the interest greater in the swimming pool. One can see swimmers from boys just learning to grown men enjoying the benefits of the pool every day. Have you taken a plunge yet this year? Never was an opportunity offered which will prove of more vital interest than this one of knowing how to swim. During the past month over thirty new members have come into the association for this one privilege alone.

MAYHON HERE AGAIN

Will Present New Water Proposition to the City Council This Evening—Big Basin Near Pumping Station Proposed.

W. F. Mayhon was in the city Wednesday and will submit a new water proposition to the city council at the regular meeting this evening.

Mr. Mayhon now proposes to build a big dam in the neighborhood of the present pumping station, forming a basin that will cover a territory extending over 800 or 1,000 acres, and in places will be fifty feet deep. There are many springs near the pumping station and some weeks ago water was taken from these springs and analyzed. The analysis, according to Mr. Mayhon, shows the water to be as pure as that taken from the wells sunk near Bluffs.

C. J. Gerold, a practical engineer, has been in the city recently and has gone over the whole territory in question and is satisfied that the plan is a feasible one and that the cost will approximate about $350,000.

Mr. Mayhon stated that he had interested eastern capitalists in the proposition, who had been favorably impressed with the report made by Mr. Gerold, and that if the city council would agree to make a substitution in the wording of the water proposition contract now entered into between the Jacksonville Water company as represented by Mr. Mayhon and others, that the money needed to finance the enterprise would be forthcoming without delay. Mr. Mayhon stated he would be ready to furnish a bond of $10,000 guaranteeing the new proposition within a very few days after the council had made the changes in the ordinance necessary to bring it within the terms agreed upon.

Mr. Mayhon spent Wednesday interviewing the members of the city council and present his proposition in detail at the meeting to be held this evening.

"THE ONLY WAY" TO CLEAR LAKE FARM.

The above resort is located on the Michigan Central railway, ninety-five miles northeast of Chicago, at Buchanan, Mich., and is said to be a very delightful place. They certainly know a good thing, as they have secured the Jeffries orchestra, whose reputation for musical ability is so well and widely known.

They will give a series of concerts, etc., for several weeks and will be a very pleasant feature. They leave for Buchanan this morning via THE ALTON to Chicago and will no doubt have a pleasant trip over that popular line.

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Sealed proposals will be received by the trustees of the Illinois Central Hospital for the insane, up to noon, July 19, 1904, for furnishing all the bituminous coal to be used in said hospital from the first day of August, 1904, to the 31st day of July, 1905, inclusive. Proposals shall be for run of mine lump coal and mine run. Said coal to be delivered in coal houses of said hospital at such time and in such quantities as may be required by the superintendent of said hospital. The coal to be inspected by said superintendent, weighed on the hospital scales, and such weights to be considered correct in making settlement. The right is reserved to the said superintendent to reject any coal that fails in his judgment to meet the requirements as to quality, and such rejected coal shall not be paid for. Proposals must specify the price per ton (2,000 pounds); must be sealed and endorsed "Proposals for Coal," and directed to the superintendent of the hospital. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check of $100 as a guarantee that the contract will be accepted by the bidder if awarded. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a bond with approved securities in the sum of $2,000 for the faithful performance of the contract. The trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids, and to re-advertise for bids at their option.

FUNERALS

DALBY.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Fannie Dayton Dalby were held at the residence of John Gordon on West College avenue Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The impressive services were in charge of Rev. A. B. Morey, and a choir composed of Mrs. Sarajane Matthews Rice, Miss Charlotte Stryker, Melville Kennedy and John L. Johnson sang appropriate selections.

The many beautiful floral tokens were cared for by Mrs. Danskin, Miss Askew, Mrs. M. H. Havenhill and Miss Savage, of Ashland.

At the conclusion of the services the remains were conveyed to Diamond Grove cemetery and were there laid to rest. The bearers were: James H. Danskin, Harry Hall, M. H. Havenhill, Richard Reynolds, J. E. Fitzsimmons and A. T. Capps.

Persons from out of the city who were here to attend the funeral were:

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Savage and daughter, Miss Frances, of Ashland, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Jacoby, of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon, of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. SULLIVAN.

Funeral services of Mrs. Annie Sullivan were held at the Church of Our Savior Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in the presence of many friends. Rev. Father Formaz officiating. Many beautiful floral tokens were sent by sorrowing friends as tributes of their love and esteem for the departed.

After the services the remains were conveyed to Calvary cemetery for interment, the bearers being William Franz, Albert, George and John Sullivan, Charles Duffer and Harry Ealy.

TEAM RAN AWAY.

E. C. McMeans stopped a runaway mule team belonging to William H. Lake on South Church street Wednesday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock. The team was hitched in front of the residence of Dr. P. C. Thompson and scared at the Hook automobile. The mules were tied with the ordinary single hitch rein and it was with little difficulty that they broke the strap. They fortunately had a clear field and made the turn into Church street without encountering any vehicles. No damage resulted and Sylvester Arbuckle, who happened to drive along, recognized the team as belonging to Mr. Lake and after hitching the tugs drove the team back to the square where it was turned over to Mr. Lake.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

WAS PASSENGER ON ILL FATED

C., P. & St. L. Train—J. L. Fitzhugh of Chicago Relates His Experience to Journal Representative.

J. L. Fitzhugh, of Chicago, who is quite well known here, was one of the passengers on the ill-fated C., P. & St. L. train, but escaped serious injury. He was on his way from Peoria to Springfield and came to this city Wednesday morning.

He was seated on the side of the train from which the storm approached and watched it gather. In conversation with a Journal representative last evening Mr. Fitzhugh said:

"I was seated in the third car of the train. There were about fifteen passengers in the car and we were carrying an empty coach behind us. I did not see the funnel shaped cloud, but what first attracted my attention to the fury of the storm was the swaying of the trees and finally I saw one huge tree torn from its roots and hurled through the air. I realized then that we were encountering a veritable tornado. Conductor Coleman had just been through the train and warned the passengers of the danger approaching. The next minute the tornado struck us and we were lifted into the air and the next moment I found myself in the roof of the car piled up in a heap with my fellow passengers. The lamps in the car had not been lighted, but the oil ran out of them and it was slippery work trying to crawl out. The car had turned half over and the trucks were sticking straight up in the air.

"Finding that I was not seriously injured I at once went to the aid of the other passengers and assisted several of the passengers in my car, most of whom were women, and took them to the last coach which had landed rightside up after making a complete revolution.

"General Manager Gridley and Conductor Coleman, although injured, were both active in directing the removal of the injured and in caring for the remains of Mr. Wiley who was killed. The theory at the time of the accident was that Wiley jumped and was caught under the falling car.

"As soon as the engineer found that the train had broken away from his engine he at once started for Petersburg to secure relief. The engineer did not stop at Oakford and this was the first intimation the people of the village had that some accident had occurred. The embankment over which the train was hurled was about twelve feet high and the presence of mind of the engineer saved the train from being hurled from the bridge, which is but a short distance away."

Mr. Fitzhugh feels that he had almost a miraculous escape. While apparently uninjured he was bruised about the left hip and a slight injury to his right knee will cause him to limp for a few days. He will remain in the city to day on business with J. Capps & Sons.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE. By mutual agreement between the partners of the firm of Lonergan & Smith, the partnership heretofore existing is hereby dissolved. Miss Susie Smith continuing the business in her name. All bills due the firm of Lonergan & Smith are due and payable to Miss Smith, who assumes all indebtedness.

THE TRAMP'S HALT

The battered hat pulled down over his eyes hardly shaded his rough face, most of which was covered with a coarse, bristling beard. As he shuffled on through the heat and dust his eyes were fixed on the ground, but now and then he raised his head slightly and took a rapid glance over the fields and up to the distant hills.

Presently he reached a slight bend in the road and, rounding this, approached a small frame house, entered the yard, carefully closing the gate after him, and after standing irresolutely a few moments walked across the lawn.

As he rounded the corner of the house a little terrier rushed at him, yelping shrill defiance and calling to the door of the kitchen a tall woman of perhaps fifty years of age. Her iron gray hair, brushed straight back from her forehead, was caught in a knot at the crown of her head and held in place by a steel comb. At the first glance she might have been called an "angular" woman, which expression usually conveys the impression of an angular disposition, but the severe plainness of her appearance was relieved by her eyes. Soft gray they were, with kind little wrinkles around them, and they looked now at the strange figure before her through spectacles, with a twinkle of quizzical sympathy.

Quelling with a sharp word the zealous dog, which was still yelping around the tramp, she leaned against the doorpost, drying her hands on a coarse towel and surveying with a slight smile of pity, shrouded with contempt, the ragged specimen of humanity who stood there awkwardly, the battered remnant of a hat grasped in one hand and gazing at her with a look which might have indicated sullenness or respect.

"Well, what d'ye want, my man? I reckon somethin' to eat an' drink 'd' about suit ye, eh? Jest you set down on the step there, an' I'll see what I can do fer ye. I never could scarce up much affection fer a tramp somehow, but I try to follow the Scriptural advice 'bout the cup of cold water, an' mebbe that was meant to include pie, ef any was handy."

Not noticing the gesture of dissent from the tramp, she turned into the kitchen and presently came back with a bowl of milk and an immense piece of dried apple pie, which she placed before her guest, telling him to "set down an' pletch in."

The wanderer, though evidently not suffering from hunger, ate and drank with apparent but not unrestrained enjoyment. The woman sat down on the step above him and watched him eat with an amused, nearsighted expression.

"Another thing makes me kinder feel fer you tramps is my boy hein' gone. Nigh on to eight years now since I kivered him 'goodby down by the gate yonder, an' he started off so brave an' hopeful-like. Lord, how proud I was of him, givin' away to make a fortune fer his mother, but I thought my heart would burst as I seen him disappear round the bend in the road up there; a-wavin' his hand to me, standin' lookin' over the gate!"

"Where did he go?" asked the tramp, who was crouching on the step with bent head. The woman's eyes were fixed on the blue hills in the distance, and she did not notice him.

"Out west. Got it into his head he c'd make a pile of money out there, an' I thought—well, 'cause Tom was a right smart lad an' steady as a rock. An' his letters was hopeful, too, but I haven't heard from him now these six years. His father's dead, too—died three year ago from a horse kick, so I imagine."

Her voice grew tremulous, but she brightened again.

"Sometimes settin' out there in front of the house after ten, I doze off, kinder dreamin', an' then I think I can see Tom comin' up to the gate, back to his old mother, him a grown man. An' when I wake up I always feel cold, an' I have a little cry to myself, an' then I'm all right again, fer I know I'll meet him up there when—"

"Maybe he's not dead. He might have gone wrong," said the tramp without raising his head.

"My Tom go wrong? Why, man, ef my boy was alive today I'm sure he'd be honest an' good as I am settin' here. You're down in the world; but, not knowin' the facts, I ain't sayin' but what it mightn't a' been all your fault. But ef you'd known my boy as I do you'd never believe he c'd go wrong. It's all I have now—my faith in my religion an' my faith in my boy—an' ef anything shook either I'd rather not live."

For several minutes they sat silent, struggling with the thoughts that came upon them.

Slowly the wanderer rose.

"Thank you for the meal, missus. I'm goin' on." And he turned and walked slowly toward the gate, the little terrier, unnoticed, barking at his heels.

Passing through the gate, he latched it carefully and, without turning, his head started up the road at his old slouching gait, his hands thrust deep in the pockets of his trousers, his head bent forward, his shuffling feet kicking up clouds of dust, which settled behind him as he passed as though to obliterate his footsteps.

The woman, who had come to the gate, stood there and gazed after him, her hand shading her eyes.

The tramp made no sign until he reached the bend in the road. There he stopped, half turned and looked back for a moment, then disappeared round the bend. Had it not been for the dust the woman might have seen him wave his hand. New York Telegram.

WONDERFUL LABOR SAVER.

Tim Mullen of Chicago claims that he can deliver more buttonholes of a fine grade and quality at a given price than any other man in the country. Mr. Mullen represents the manufacturer of a machine for making buttonholes in shoes, shirts, overalls, etc. "One girl in Lynn, Mass.," he said, "made 13,175 buttonholes in shoes in one day, operating two machines simultaneously. That is the record, but an operator of ordinary ability can make 10,000 a day. Formerly it was necessary to put the shoe through three or four machines to make the completed buttonhole, one to cut the leather, another to stitch the sides and another to tie the ends, but all this is done by one machine now. The old style machines required the operator to walk around the machine for each buttonhole made, but the new way is to have the machine do the walking around, sewing entirely around the hole without making the operator change his place."—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Hot Meal Without a Fire.

Readers of the war news will have noticed one or two references to the fact that tinned meats for the Russian troops are prepared by a process which enables the contents of each tin to be served hot without a fire. This boon is secured by having the ordinary tins filled with food "jacketed" in patent tins. The patent tin contains water, together with a chemical mixture, by means of which the water can be raised to boiling point in ten minutes or a quarter of an hour. All that is necessary to do when it is desired to heat the food is to puncture the top of the patent tin, the chemical mixture being thereby forced into the water, which soon begins to boil.—London Truth.

Why Korea Possesses No Bicycles.

The Rev. C. T. Collyer, lecturing at the Anthropological institute, said he once asked a venerable Korean why his people did not use the bicycle.

"We had a bicycle once," was the startling reply of the patriarch. "It was invented by one of our great men about 700 years ago. It had two mechanisms, a going out and a coming home mechanism. But one day the mother of the inventor, in order to test the joys of cycling, stole the machine and rode off on it. Unfortunately, however, she did not take the coming home mechanism, and since then," added the old man dolefully, "Korea has not had a bicycle."—London Express.

A Crack Marksman.

General Kuropatkin is a crack marksman. When he was minister of war, during a tour of inspection he visited Sevastopol and strolled with the commandant along the boulevard, where there was a shooting saloon. His host invited him to a contest, and the minister accepted, each to fire ten shots with a revolver at fifteen paces, the target being a piece of white cardboard about the size of a small cigarette case. With a revolver the general put all his ten shots into the target, to the complete discomfiture of the other competitor, and when a similar target was put up ten paces further off he repeated the performance with the rifle.

Colored Waiters Being Displaced.

Time was when the colored man was the only safe, sure waiter for the commercial hotel, and the imported waiter was the choice for the fashionable place. Now waitresses are displacing the colored waiters in many places where formerly the service of the former would have been deemed totally impracticable. You ask any hotel proprietor or manager why it is that he employs girls, and you are sure to be told that the guests prefer their service, and here (wags also considered) is the sum total of the argument why waitresses are now so much employed.—Hotel World.

Port Arthur.

Port Arthur (in Chinese Lushun K'ow), near a promontory of the peninsula portion of the Manchurian province of Sinkiang or Fung-tienfu, was leased by China to Russia for a period of twenty-five years in March, 1898, with a view of establishing a naval station for Russian war vessels in the east and understanding that "it shall not prejudice China's sovereignty over the territory," and that the port should be closed to all ships except Chinese and Russian men-of-war. The place was formerly only a small fishing village.

LIFE AT PORT ARTHUR

Gay Despite War Measures, Says Hector Fuller.

NO EVIDENCES OF DISTRESS.

American Correspondent, Recently a Captive, Found Russian Troops in Excellent Condition—Officers at a Dance—Released by General Stoessel, Who Remarked, on Hearing of His Exploit, "You Americans Must Be Crazy."

Hector Fuller, the war correspondent of the Indianapolis News, in a message sent recently from Chifu, China, describes his experiences at Port Arthur, where he was imprisoned, as follows:

"After being rowed across from the Mantao Islands in an open boat by two Chinamen, I landed at Lousha bay. The bay is near Port Arthur and is separated from it by a range of hills. I landed at daybreak on the morning of June 10 without detection. With the full coming of the day I could see that every hilltop near the shore was alive with soldiers, busily engaged in strengthening the already formidable fortifications, which occupied every point of vantage.

"It looked at first as though it would be impossible to pass through the lines and make my way over the hills toward Port Arthur, but by keeping down in the narrow valleys, which were free of soldiers, I gradually made my way into the interior of the peninsula. After a day and night of effort I succeeded in reaching Port Arthur. The hazard of my position became so obvious that the same day, Saturday, June 11, I set out on my return to Lousha bay. I presently came in sight of a large body of Russian infantry, when I took refuge in a Chinese village, where I found a hiding place until the danger was over. I had not proceeded far from this village when I came upon a small party of sappers. In order to avoid them I made a dash up a hill, only to run into another regiment. Instantly I was surrounded.

"The officer in command detailed a guard to take me to Pigeon bay. There I was searched. I was stripped to the skin, and all my garments were subjected to the closest scrutiny. My money was taken, and all the papers in my possession were examined. Thereupon I was handcuffed and marched to Port Arthur. The route was over the military road recently constructed. In spite of the bandage over my eyes I was able to note that the road is of admirable construction.

"Port Arthur was full of life and gaiety. There seemed to be an abundance of supplies, and fresh supplies were coming in from Chinese sources. "The Japanese blockade had not been effective. The harbor entrance has been freed of obstructions, the battle-ships have been repainted, and the fortifications are constantly being made stronger. The garrison is larger than outside information had led me to believe. The troops are in excellent condition, and the general health conditions of the city are good. There seemed to be no fear that the city was likely soon to fall.

"The night I was marched into Port Arthur under guard the city was unusually lively, as the officers were giving a ball. Three officers were detailed to examine me, and they made thorough work of it. After the examination was completed I was lodged in prison. The prison is directly opposite Golden Hill. From the window of my cell I had a good view of the inner bay and could see distinctly the repaired battleships lying at anchor.

"In the same prison were confined 100 Japanese who had been captured from the blockading expedition. Several of these had become insane. I myself was kept on Russian black bread and water for two days. Then I was permitted by the authorities to purchase such food as I desired. While I was in the prison I was subjected to seven different examinations. The thing that evidently roused the greatest suspicion was the passport that had been issued to me at Tokyo.

"I demanded the opportunity of seeing General Stoessel, the commandant at Port Arthur, that I might lay my case directly before him. After five days my plea was allowed. I made a straightforward statement of my purpose in seeking to penetrate the Russian lines, and gave a detailed account of my trip. At last he was convinced of my good faith. He said: 'You Americans must be crazy.'

"As the result of this hearing of my case General Stoessel decided that I was to be allowed to leave Port Arthur on condition that I promise never to return. The promise was promptly forthcoming. Thereupon I was again blindfolded and taken back under guard by the direct route to Lousha bay. Arrived there I was requested to point out the exact spot at which I made my landing. Immediately a sentry was placed at that point.

"I was sent away then on a junk along with a host of Chinese. These were the men of an entire village who were being deported because the village had harbored some Japanese. The junk was escorted outside the harbor by Russian torpedo boats and then was left to make its way alone as best it could across the gulf.

"On the whole I may say that while I was in the hands of the Russians I was kindly treated.

"On the night of June 13 the Japanese made another attack on Port Arthur, both by land and by sea. I saw distinctly the firing from my cell window. When the affair was over the Russian officers returned laughing to their quarters, reporting that the enemy had been easily repulsed."

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

When Out to Win He Let Nothing Stand in His Way.

"It's all off," she said, and there was defiance in her tone and a pink spot on each cheek.

"Again?" said the long suffering friend, who rather likes him.

"This time it's for good," said the girl with the mauve sunshade. "It was all his fault."

"Of course," assented the other girl.

"We were coming home from Staten Island on the boat. I had never been quite sure that I loved him until that minute. I never was sure that I didn't love him until now."

"And you are quite certain now?" "Absolutely."

"The same old story. My life is a hard one. Every one confides in me, and yet I never hear anything new."

"Well, you'll see that this is different. We had played philopena at dinner. It was for 'yes or no.' I forgot all about it, and we talked of—well, of other things."

"For instance?"

"Don't be silly. I said the day had been a dream of pleasure and that I wished it could have been fifteen hours long. And then he said, 'Do you love me?'"

"You don't mean it."

"And of course I said, 'Yes.'—"

"I pity the man who expects originality from you."

Couldn't Afford It.

A good story is told of one of the most prominent of New York's financiers, who has a son whose extravagance is notorious. Not long ago at the end of the business day the banker left his office and stood for a moment on the curb before starting for the elevated station. Immediately a hansom drove up, the driver seeing a desirable fare in prospect. The banker shook his head and started to walk away.

"I drive your son uptown every day," insinuated the driver.

"He can afford it," retorted the millionaire. "He's got a rich father."—Harper's Weekly.

His Only Refuge.

It was a well dressed young man, with a sad, faraway look in his eyes, that stood on the steps as the lady opened the door.

"Excuse me, madam," he said as he lifted his hat, "but could you direct me to the Home For the Friendless?"

"Do you mean to say that you are seeking it as a refuge?" she asked in surprise.

"I am, madam," he replied. "I am a baseball umpire."—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Unabashed.

"It is hinted," said the close observer, "that there is no excuse for your having so much money."

"My friend," answered Senator Sorghum, "those people don't understand our social system. Now days it's a waste of time to expect a man to stand up and apologize for having money."—Washington Star.

The Cause Must be Removed, Same Way With Dandruff.

Kill the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair and baldness, your hair will grow more luxuriantly. Newbro's Herculene not only kills the dandruff germ, but it also is a most delicate hair dressing, for regular toilet use. No other hair preparation is on this scientific basis of destroying the dandruff germ. It stops all irritation, keeps the scalp sweet, pure and wholesome. Remember that something claimed to be "just as good," will not do the work of genuine Herculene. Sold by leading druggists. Send 2c. stamps for sample to The Herculene Co., Detroit, Mich.

MATHENY & LLOYD.

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, July 6.—Wheat—There was good trade and feeling was again stronger. The close showed July up 1/4c, September 1/4c. Commission houses were good buyers of September, while early offerings were moderate. Wet weather was principal influence. The market, however, strengthened somewhat by increase of 5,000,000 bushels in world's available as shown by trade report.

Corn—Better trade and stronger undertone, close showing July up 1/4c, September 1/4c. Higher. Wet weather and strength in wheat were main bullish influences.

Oats—More generally traded in, advanced 1/2c and closed almost at top, with gains of 1/2c, July leading. There was good feeling of September and weakness of July. Wet weather and strength in other grains assisted in causing buying and advance.

Re-Shipments.
Flour, bbls 25,000 21,000
Wheat, bus 16,000 12,000
Corn, bus 256,000 405,000
Oats, bus 235,000 118,000

Cattle—Receipts, 18,000. There was fairly active general demand at steady prices. Buyers were very exacting and grassy cattle were discriminated against, best demand being for well matured, handy dry fed steers. Stockers and feeders trade slow. Good to prime, $4.00 to $5.00; poor to medium, $3.50 to $4.00.

Hogs—Receipts, 25,000. There was active demand once more and prices ruled strong and about 2 1/2c higher, extreme range being $5.25 to $5.75, the latter being a new high record. Mixed and butchers, $5.50 to $5.75; choice heavy, $5.60 to $5.75; rough heavy, $5.50 to $5.65; light, $5.35 to $5.55.

Sheep—Receipts, 14,000. Prices ruled strong, there being active demand. Sheep, $3.25 to $3.55; lambs, $3.60 to $3.75.

ST. LOUIS MARKET.
St. Louis, July 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 5,000. Market slow. Beef steers, $4.00 to $5.00; stockers and feeders, $3.00 to $3.50; cows and heifers, $2.25 to $4.70; Texas steers, $3.00 to $4.50.

Corn—Receipts, 35,000; exports, 77,000. Spot firm; No. 2, 53 1/2c; No. 2 white, 54 1/2c. Options closed 1/4c net higher; July, 54 1/2c.

Oats—Receipts, 143,000. Spot firm; mixed, 43 1/2c; white, 44 1/2c; clipped white, 45 1/2c.

FINANCIAL NEWS.
New York, July 6.—Increased dealings in stocks to day and momentum imparted to the price movement by yesterday's operations carried the level of values to a considerably higher level to day and enabled buyers to take profits freely an advance and continue movement in spite of some unpropitious features in the day's news. Union Pacific retained a position of influential leadership in the market, but was not so dominant as yesterday, and was the subject of free profit-taking along with others conspicuous in yesterday's movement. Sessions of congressional leadership to day were taken by Pennsylvania and United States Steel preferred. A rise of nearly four points in Northern Securities on the curb was a sympathetic help to the general market, but was unexplained. The advance in the price of copper led to a rise in Amalgamated Copper. The market was readily carried to the top level of the day in the final hour after news realized had been disposed of and closing was fairly steady, but not at best prices, as follows:

Money on call easy at 10 1/4 per cent; closing bid, 1 1/4; offered at 1 1/4. Time loans firm; sixty days and ninety days at 2 1/2 per cent; six months at 3 1/2 per cent.

Prime paper at 3 1/2 per cent.
Exchange firm. Demand at 48 1/2 to 48 3/4; sixty days at 48 1/2 to 48 3/4.
Bar silver at 58 1/2.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Colorado's Adjutant General.
Adjutant General Sherman M. Bell, who has been brought into prominence because of the prolonged miners' strike in Colorado, is in charge of the state militia in the Telluride district, where martial law is in force.

Since the beginning of the strike last fall there have been numerous clashes between the civil and military forces.

ADJUTANT GENERAL SHERMAN M. BELL, of the district, and on one occasion General Bell ignored an order of the supreme court. As a result of the recent killing of a number of nonunion miners General Bell has resumed activity in the field, and a number of union miners have been deported. The strike has already cost many millions of dollars and more than a score of lives.

A Doubtful Compliment.
Poutney Bigelow, who has accepted the chair of foreign relations at Boston university, had completed an address before the Twentieth Century club of Chicago. A young man congratulated Mr. Bigelow rather awkwardly on this address, and the learned traveler replied:

"That is a doubtful compliment. It reminds me of a remark that a friend of the groom's made at a New Hampshire wedding.

"This friend, an observant chap, watched the groom closely during the ceremony and at the end bore down on the happy man, shook him warmly by the hand and said:

"Bill, ye done good. I had an idee ye would be skittish while ye wuz bein' tied up, but, begosh, ye looked as bold as a sheep!"—Washington Post.

Got Quay's Opinion.
A young Philadelphia lawyer eager to shine in public councils once consulted the late Senator Quay as to ways and means, says the New York Times.

"I've been in politics over a year," he said, "and I find it rather a difficult problem. I can't say I'm getting on very rapidly, and I'm fast losing my individuality. That isn't a very good sign, is it?"

"Well," answered the senator in a droll, quiet way, "I should say it was the best thing that could happen—to you."

He Got the Watch.
A London city missionary who worked in the slums of a certain district and was well known to the thieves that swarmed there began his service one day with the words, "I think I know which of you stole Mr. —'s gold watch yesterday, and I shall be glad if you will send it back to me before noon tomorrow." He made no threat and indeed spoke very gently. The next day he received eight gold watches!

Russia's Fighting Admiral.
Vice Admiral Skrydloff, who commands the czar's naval forces in the far east, seems to be making good use of the Vladivostok squadron. The recent sinking of the Japanese transports Hitachi and Sado in the strait of Korea shows that he is an enemy to be reckoned with and with his three splendid armored cruisers may seriously interfere with the Japanese line of communication.

Vice Admiral Skrydloff is one of the most popular officers of the Russian navy and long ago won a reputation for bravery. For distinguished services in the Turkish war he received the cross of St. George. Since then he has seen much service, and his determination and pertinacity as a fighter have made him known throughout the service as the "bulldog of the navy." He reached the rank of vice admiral in 1900 and before his present assignment was in command of the Black sea fleet.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Cribbing Horses.
The cause of this habit is in the majority of cases due to indigestion or bad teeth, so when the horse has the habit it should be turned over to a veterinary surgeon to have its teeth put in order. If this does not break the habit, then treat the animal for indigestion.

Give the animal a dose consisting of a mixture of two ounces of turpentine and one pint of raw linseed oil and repeat in a week. See that the animal has plenty of exercise and keep a lump of rock salt in its manger all the time. For awhile let the ration consist of bran and cornmeal night and morning, with cut hay as roughage. At noon let the ration be of whole oats, with a small allowance of hay. Under this treatment the animal will show a marked improvement in a short time, and if it is persisted in the treatment will probably break up the habit of cribbing.—Breeder and Sportsman.

A Berkshire Hog.
Breeding Berkshires has been a hobby with me for twenty-five years, says a New York correspondent of American Agriculturist. About six years ago I started a herd of large English Berkshires. I have had pigs at five months and five days old dress 100 pounds each. I like them better than any other breed I have ever handled. They fatten easily for market. In the spring I ring my hogs and turn them in my orchard, where they pasture to good advantage. Pigs are weaned when they are about six weeks old. I feed milk and middlings to young pigs, but my breeding sows get bran and water. I feed beets with a little corn twice a day in winter. At farrowing time I separate them until after the pigs are weaned.

Poultry in Demand.
There has been an unusual amount of inquiry of late as to the possibilities of the poultry business being overdone. Surely the past season should satisfy every one that for many years to come there will not be an excess of poultry or poultry products of any kind. Chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese as market poultry have all sold higher the past year than ever before. Even at this time they are very high in the markets, the supply of turkeys said to be exhausted through the entire country and the storage houses empty. In the face of these conditions one would scarcely imagine that for many years at least there would be an excess of these products.—Fowler.

Cottonseed Meal.
A large number of cattle, sheep and hogs are kept at the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas on which experiments are made to determine the relative value of foodstuffs in producing fat. Recently it has been determined that cottonseed meal is unsuited for feeding cattle that are at the same time eating for roughness alfalfa and peanut hay. This combination produces too much looseness of the bowels. Corn or some such grain should be substituted for the cottonseed meal.—Farm and Ranch.

Henhouse Conveniences.
On a shelf out of reach of the fowls keep a box of lice powder, a bottle with spraying solution, box of vasoline or carbolized lard and a ball of string. The bottle should be fitted with a notched cork to allow the fluid to drip, says Poultry Life. A few white caps of the bottle over roosts and about walls and floors will keep the house smelling sweet and destroy germs. Crude carbolic acid is one of the best germ destroyers. It should be used with a spray and once added to each gallon of whitewash.

Dr. Koch's Discovery.
Professor Koch, according to a cablegram from Berlin, has discovered a new serum for the prevention of the cattle, mule and horse epidemics, which have been killing animals in the South African herds. It is stated that the government of Rhodesia paid Professor Koch $150,000 for his services. Koch has discovered also that the African rinderpest is radically different from the American Texas fever, the belief having previously existed that the former was imported from America by cattle from the south.

Help the Rat Fly.
If the pigs have a rough to themselves, away from the box, the runt stands a fairly good show if he is liberally fed, says American Agriculturist. Otherwise he is a loser of all that he would be the very first to find out. Keep the runt, though, and he will eat after the rest have finished. The runt should be kept with the sow for a couple of weeks after the others of the litter are weaned. This gives him a chance to gain some before he is compelled to subsist on what he eats alone.

Hot Water For Ivy Poison.
A medical expert for the United States army recommends the use of hot water to check the irritation caused by ivy poison. This remedy was found better than lime water, soda alcohol, zinc oxide and the other common substances used. He plunges the affected part directly into the water or applies it with a sponge.

Feeding the Lambs.
Arrange the trough so that the lambs cannot climb in and soil the grain with their feet. Place a rack over the trough so that the lambs can put their heads through to get the grain.

The Bacon Hog.
The Minnesota experiment station asserts that up to six and a half months the bacon hog can be produced as cheaply as the lard hog.

PATENT MEDICINES.

A man that compounds or invents something that is just a little better than the next best thing, is certainly entitled to the best share of the profits to be derived from the sale of the article. So he patents or copyrights to protect his interests. Patented goods are good goods, poor goods are never patented. We have 20 years of trial behind us to give us the assurance that we have the best medicine compounded for the cure of dyspepsia, sick-headache, biliousness, indigestion and all stomach disorders. We protect the public as well as ourselves by keeping the formula a secret, as long as we make it we know it is made right and it cures these diseases. Druggists tell us that it is the one medicine that the sale is over on the increase. To get the best remedy for dyspepsia or indigestion ask the druggists for Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills, price 25c per box, only one for a dose. For sale by Leo P. Alcott.

MATRIMONIAL

PECHT-MESSER.

Jesse P. Pecht and Miss Millie Messer, both of Chicago, were married by Squire B. B. Gray in his office Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

EDITOR ANDERSON TAKES LEAVE.

The employees of the Springfield News took advantage of the lull in the day's business at noon Wednesday to say good-bye to Mr. George E. Anderson, the retiring editor and manager of that paper.

Mr. Anderson, with his wife and little son, leaves Springfield to day for Hang Chow, China, to which city he has been appointed United States consul by President Roosevelt.

The employees gathered in the office about Mr. Anderson's desk, and Mr. Archie Bowen, the city editor, in a neat speech, presented him with a gold watch in behalf of editorial, news room, press and counting room employees, and a set of fishing tackle presented by the circulating department. Mr. Anderson responded in a happy manner.

Mr. Anderson has been engaged in newspaper work in Springfield and Peoria most of the time since 1890. He has been editor and manager of the News since Dr. J. A. Kunkler assumed control of that publication in 1900. He will be missed in newspaper circles, but the best wishes of all will follow him to his important post in the Orient.

GOLF DATES ARE FIXED

Central Illinois Association Will Hold Tournament Here July 18-23.

July 18-23 has been determined as the dates for the Central Illinois Golf tournament which will be held in this city. There are eight cities in the association as follows: Galesburg, Bloomington, Quincy, Decatur, Champaign, Peoria, Springfield and Jacksonville.

Plans were discussed at a meeting of the house and greens committee held at the Country club last evening and a special committee of three members was appointed as follows: Mrs. S. D. Osborne, George H. Seurlock and F. L. Ledford. This committee will make all the preliminary arrangements both as to the arrangements for the tournament and for the entertainment of the visitors.

A. Campbell Brown, of Springfield, now holds the championship title in the Central association for the best individual play and the team championship is held by the city of Springfield.

Many players from all the cities in the association are expected here during the days of the tournament and some fine scores will doubtless be made. Everything possible will be done to extend a cordial welcome to the guests and many evening entertainments will be provided.

All members of the local golf club are requested to take part in the contest arranged for to day, as the result of the scores made to day will determine the make up of the first and second teams. The bogey for the course has been changed from 41 to 47.

Springfield will be here for a match contest Friday, when it is expected twenty players from the capital city will go over the local course.

Frank Cincibeaux, of Los Angeles, Cal., who has been visiting in Illinois, came here from Springfield Wednesday to be present at the funeral of his brother.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE

Provisional List of Speakers Is Announced for Seventy-fifth Anniversary Celebration.

Invitations, handsomely engraved and bearing the seal of Illinois college, are being sent out by President Barnes and the celebration committee of the board of trustees, inviting the prominent educators, educational institutions and literary societies of the country to send representatives to the seventy-fifth anniversary exercises of the college to be celebrated Sept. 21, 22 and 23. It is expected that special rates will be available for all who desire to attend this celebration within a large radius of Jacksonville and the occasion promises to be eventful in the educational history of the state. The program for the three days will have a variety of interesting features and there will be exercises in the morning, afternoon and evening of each day.

Various announcements will appear from time to time so that the public may be fully informed regarding the details of the celebration. The provisional program of the anniversary celebration contains the following list of speakers:

Secretary of War William Howard Taft, Washington.

United States Senator Shelby Moor Cullom, Washington.

Gov. Richard Yates, Illinois.

Count Limburg Stirum, Berlin, Germany.
